

2022 Citrus Selections

*All Selections Subject to Availability

CHARLIE'S PRODUCE
CULTIVATING FRESH

Blood Orange

Description

Blood oranges offer a distinct, rich orange taste with hints of berry. One blood orange contains over a day's worth of Vitamin C. They are easy to peel with a deep maroon interior making them a uniquely colored snack or addition to your favorite citrus recipe.

Available

December – June

*Organic Available

Buddha Hand

Description

Buddha's Hand citron has a bitter-sweet, bright and floral flavor and sweet, lemon blossom aroma that is primarily used as a zest for flavoring sweet and savory applications.

Available

October – February

Cara Cara

Description

A Cara Cara Navel is a red-fleshed navel believed to be a cross between the Washington Navel and the Brazilian Bahia Navel. This medium sized, seedless sweet treat is something you will not want to miss.

Available

December – May

*Organic Available

Clementine

Description

Organic Clementine's are the perfect snack on a cold winter day. These are the star of the winter season, so get yours now!

Available

Mid October – December

*Organic Available

Daisy

Description

The Daisy Tangerine is a medium-large hybrid of the mandarin varieties. They have a very round shape and easy rind to peel. These tangerines are known to be seedless with a very rich orange coloring, and juicy sweet taste.

Available

December – January

*Organic Available

Florida Grapefruit

Description

Beautiful fruit with a yellow-light orange skin and pink to deep-red flesh. Carries an intense flavor that perfectly balances a classically sweet and tart grapefruit flavor, and a smooth texture.

Available

November – May

Gold Nugget

Description

Gold Nugget Mandarins are sweet and easy to peel. This seedless variety originally received its name from its beautiful, bright and bumpy rind. These mandarins are a little bigger than the traditional mandarins, but they are a piece of gold you won't want to miss.

Available

March – June

Reserve Gold Nugget

Description

Reserve Gold Nugget Mandarins carry many of the same traits as normal Gold Nuggets, being sweet seedless, and easy to peel. The Reserve variety are specially selected off the tree when ripe, looking for traits that impact flavor such as growing location, age of tree and rootstock.

Available

February – May

Stem & Leaf Gold Nugget

Description

Reserve Gold Nugget Mandarins carry many of the same traits as normal Gold Nuggets, being sweet seedless, and easy to peel. Stem & Leaf varieties offer the same amazing flavor and juicy fruit in a beautifully colored rind with leaves.

Available

March – June

Grapefruit

Description

Grapefruit are a relatively large citrus fruit with a sour to semi-sweet, and even sometimes bitter, flavor. Grapefruit is incredibly high in Vitamin C and A, making it the perfect boost for your immune system.

Available

April – August

*Organic Available

Halo Mandarin

Description

Halos are a branded mandarin from the Pom Wonderful company. Each mandarin is grown and selected to be seedless, super-sweet and easy to peel. Halos are Non-GMO Project Verified and the perfect snack for everyone to enjoy!

Available

October – May

Heirloom Navel

Description

Heirloom navels are a breed of the true Navel Orange; however, they are picked from the “old line” orange groves. This navel is specifically grown for certain farm practices, so it is unique within itself.

Available

Mid January – Early April

Honey Tangerine

Description

Honey tangerines are small fruits with a flattened oval shape. They have thin, pale orange rinds with a pebble-like textured surface. Honey tangerines have a juicy, pale orange interior that gives off a flavorful aroma. They are aptly named for their sweet taste with notes of honey and spice.

Available

November – April

Honeybell Tangelo

Description

Honeybell Tangelos are a cross between a tangerine and pummelo, and the result is a highly sought after and frequently gifted fruit! Honeybells are intensely sweet and so juicy some have been known to eat them over the sink. Honeybells get their name from their taste and the little bell shape at the top of the fruit.

Available

December – February

Kishu Tangerine

Description

Kishu Tangerines are very delicate yet sweet hidden gems. They are smaller than the typical tangerine, but don't let that deter you – these are something you don't want to miss out on.

Available

December – January

*Organic Available

Kumquat

Description

Kumquats are small bite sized fruits that fill your mouth a big burst of sweet-tart citrus flavor. These were originally grown in China; however they have been displaced in many other areas including Florida and California. In contrast to other citrus fruits, the peel of the kumquat is edible – try one now!

Available

December – March

*Organic Available

Makrut Lime

Description

Makrut limes are a small, bumpy fruit with an acidic bitter-sour flavor and intense lime aroma. Their leaves and zest add incredible dimensions of flavor to a dish; they are used in Thai, Laos, Malaysian, and Indonesian cuisine. Primarily a cooking lime, great for savory applications.

Available

October – December

Melo Gold

Description

Melo Golds are a cross between a white grapefruit and a Pummelo. They are thicker than most grapefruits with a thick rind and golden yellow interior. Melo Golds are very sweet and lack the tartness sometimes associated with grapefruit.

Available

January

Meyer Lemon

Description

Meyer lemons are a cross between a citron and a mandarin/pommelo hybrid. They are rounder than true lemons and have a sweeter, less acidic flavor. While incredible and in high demand for cooking applications, their high acidity level allows for these lemons to also be used as antibacterial and antiseptic cleaners.

Available

November – April

*Organic Available

Minneola

Description

The Minneola, nicknamed “The Honeyball” because of its unique shape, is a cross between a tangerine and grapefruit. Minneola’s are sweet with a mild tartness while having relatively few seeds. The large size and slightly elongated neck makes it easy to recognize.

Available

Mid December – April

*Organic Available

Murcott

Description

Murcotts are widely grown in Florida between January and March. It is a hybrid orange being the child orange of the Tangelo. These medium size oranges have a thin, smooth rind and peel moderately well. They have a honey-like flavor to them and are sometimes referenced as Honey Mandarin.

Available

January – June

Navel Orange

Description

Navel Oranges are named after a mutation that caused a secondary rudimentary fruit at the base, opposite the stem end to appear. The same mutation that caused the human-like formation on the fruit also caused it to be seedless. Navels have a sweet flavor and are one of the most popular citrus varieties available.

Available

January – June, November – October

*Organic Available

Nova Mandarin

Description

Nova Mandarins are a small-sized citrus fruit with slightly bumpy skin. They have a dark orange, fine-textured flesh with a juicy, sweet, rich flavor. This citrus variety is a nearly seedless cross between a Clementine mandarin and Orlando tangelo.

Available

November – January

Ortanique

Description

The Ortanique is a late season tangor mandarin. It has a very clean and distinctive look with a thin and leathery rind. The Ortanique is very sweet with a strong balance of acidity.

Available

February – April

Paige Tangerine

Description

Paige Tangerines are small to medium sized with an easy to peel rind. The flesh is a deep orange color and is nearly seedless with every bite. It has a well balance between juicy and sweet – try some now!

Available

November – March

*Organic Available

Pink Variegated Lemon

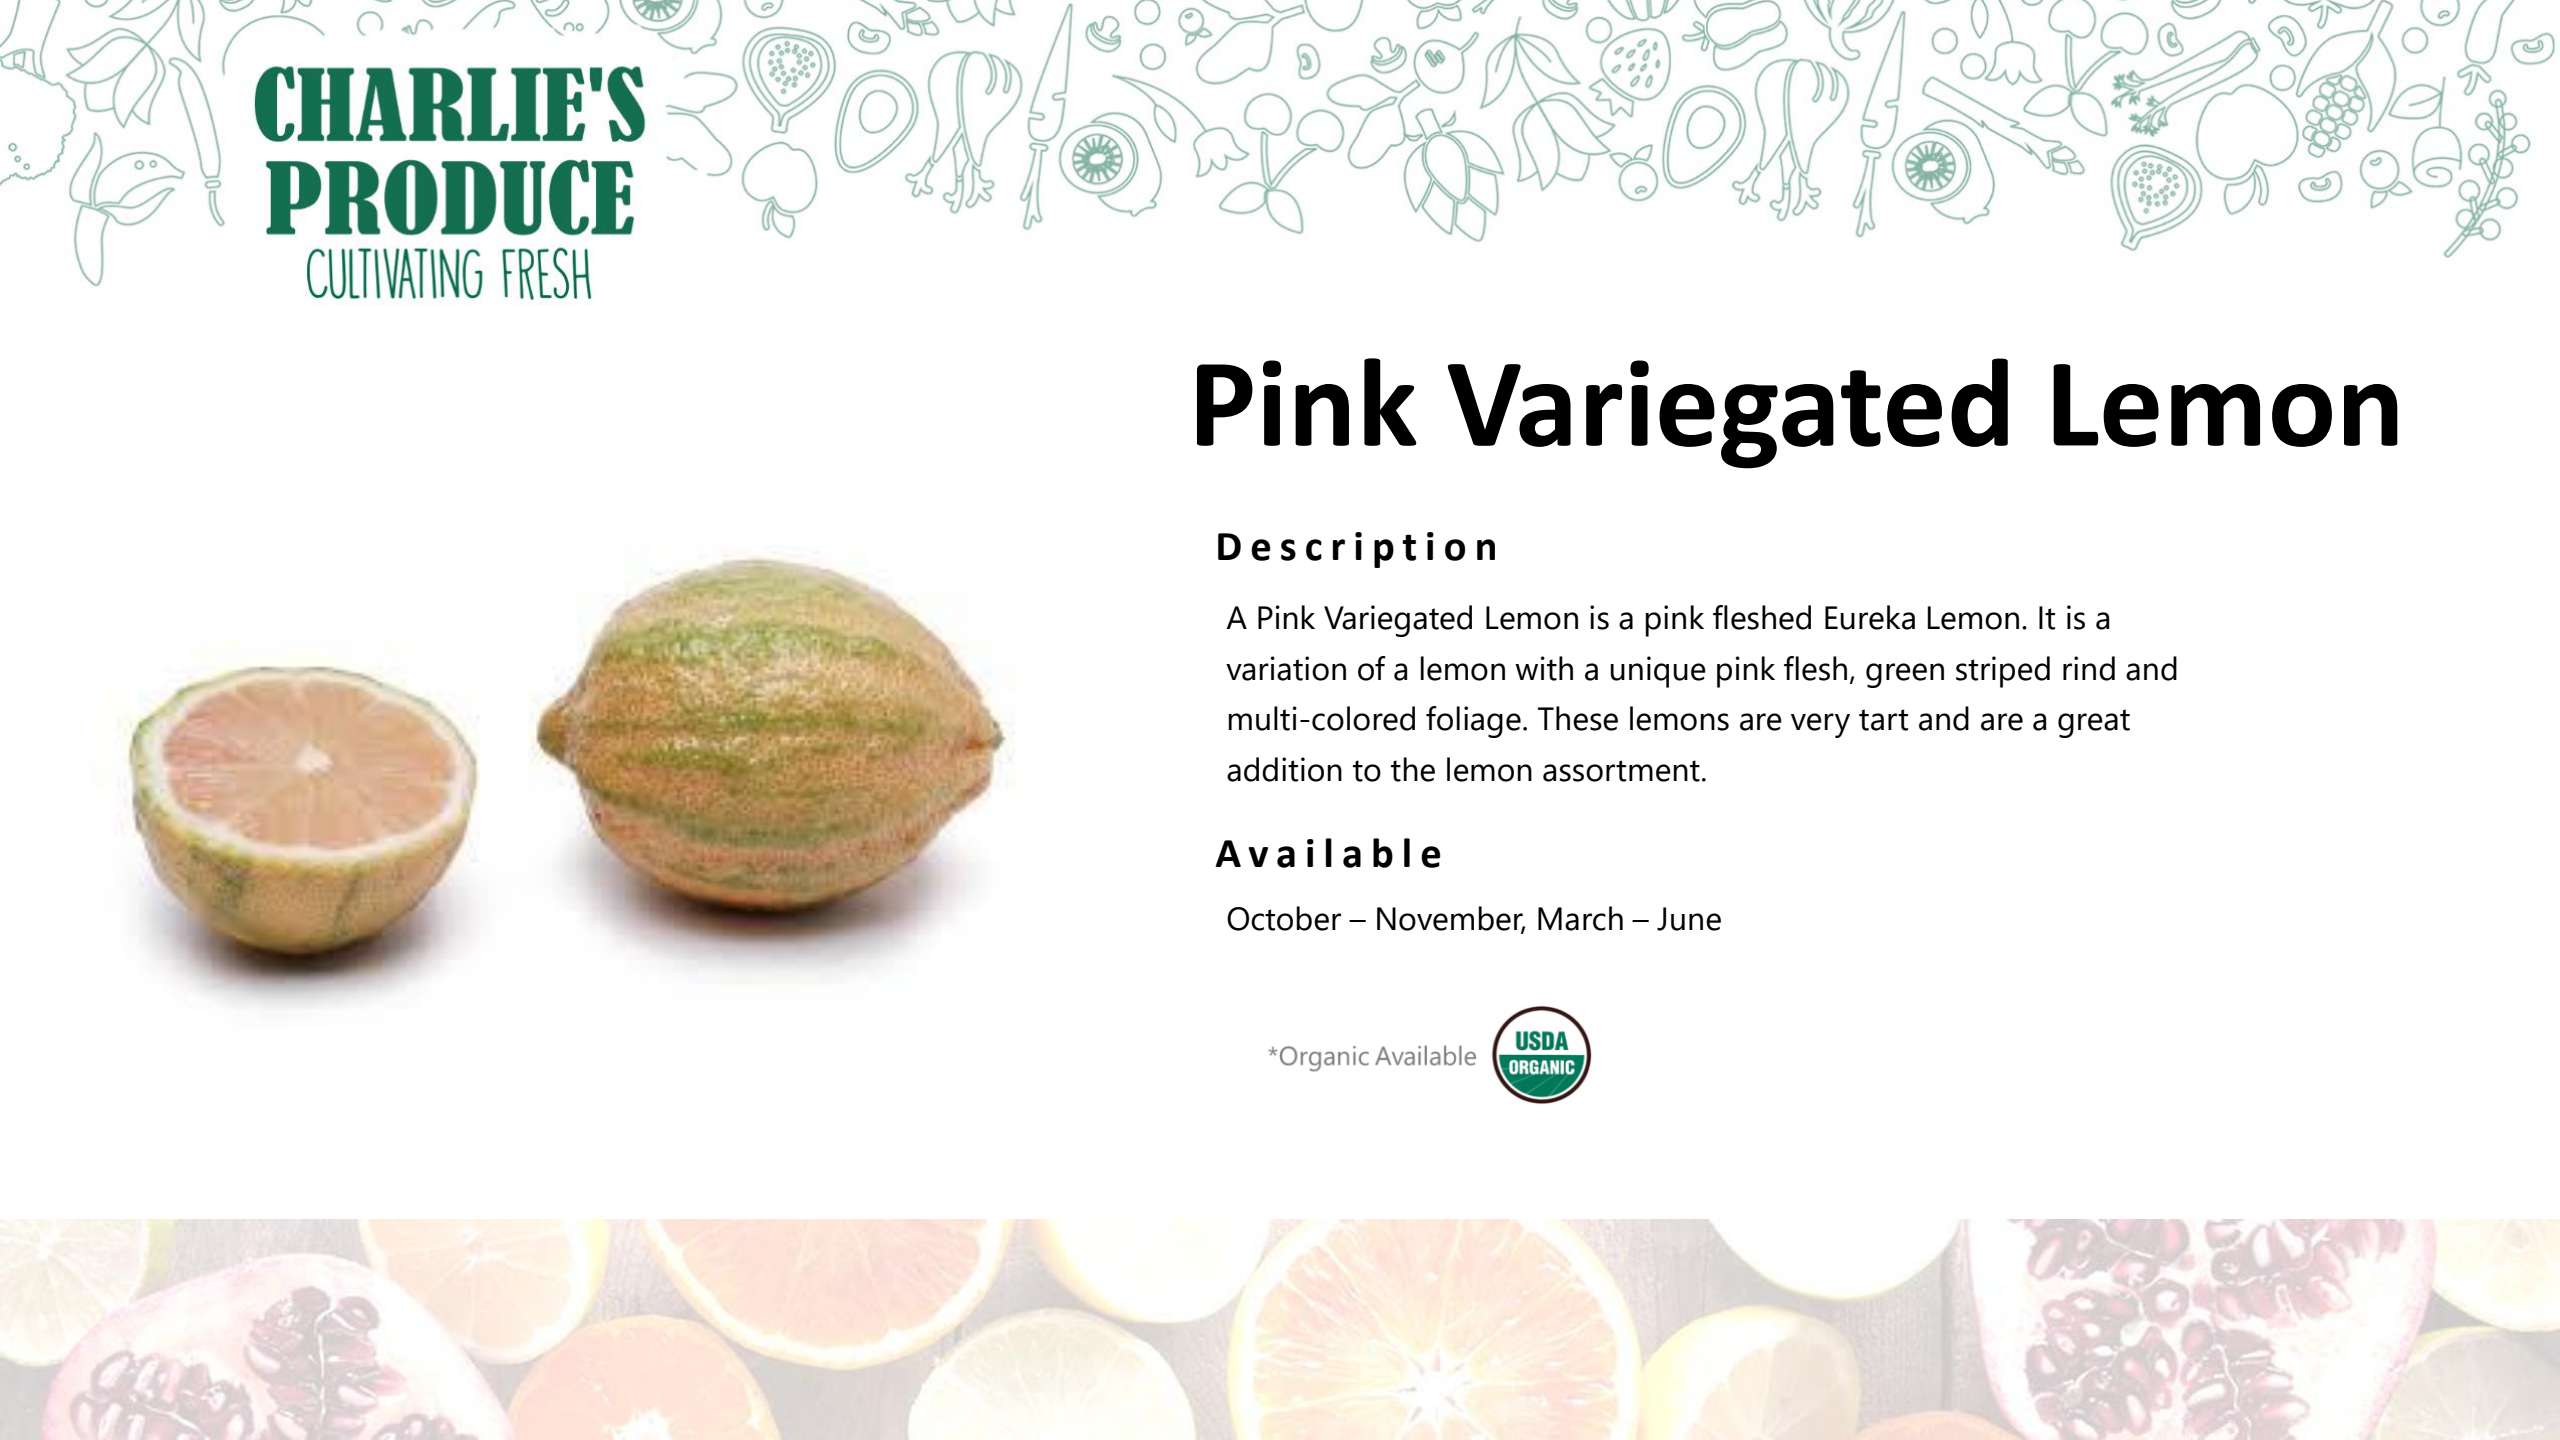

Description

A Pink Variegated Lemon is a pink fleshed Eureka Lemon. It is a variation of a lemon with a unique pink flesh, green striped rind and multi-colored foliage. These lemons are very tart and are a great addition to the lemon assortment.

Available

October – November, March – June

*Organic Available

Pixie Tangerine

Description

Pixie tangerines are pale orange colored, moderately juicy and always seedless. Pixies are small with pebbly skin and are easy to peel with segments that separate easily from one another.

Available

February – May

*Organic Available

Pummelo

Description

The largest of all citrus fruit, Pummelos have a thick, dark green peel that fades to yellow as the season progresses. Less acidic than traditional grapefruit – they have a zesty, tropical scent, with a tangy flavor.

Available

Mid October – March

*Organic Available

Satsuma

Description

Satsumas have a sweet aroma with a refreshing flavor that is warm and tropical. Satsumas peel and segment easily and are seedless. One satsuma provides more than a full day's supply of Vitamin C.

Available

October – January

*Organic Available

Stem & Leaf Satsuma

Description

Stem and Leaf Satsumas are not your typical satsumas – these satsumas are incredibly juicy with a strong honey-like sweetness. These satsumas are a healthy treat that you don't want to miss.

Available

November – January

Shasta Gold Tangerine

Description

Shasta Gold Tangerines are a slightly bumpy, deep-orange citrus variety. They are super juicy and seedless with an intensely sweet flavor and easy to peel rind. Great for salad toppings or jams!

Available

February – March

Seville Orange

Description

Also known as the bitter orange, or the sour orange, the Seville Orange is prized for its cooking applications. The high levels of pectin give it a better set and higher yield for marmalades, compotes, liqueurs and more. Would not recommend eating this one out of hand.

Available

December – January

Stem & Leaf Tango Mandarin

Description

The Minneola, nicknamed "The Honeyball" because of its unique shape, is a cross between a tangerine and grapefruit. Minneola's are sweet with a mild tartness while having relatively few seeds. The large size and slightly elongated neck makes it easy to recognize.

Available

February – March

Sumo

Description

The Sumo Mandarin is the biggest mandarin you will ever see. Dated all the way back to the 1970's – this mandarin is a cross between the Japanese satsuma with big, juicy oranges from California. It has a very distinctive shape, so you won't miss these!

Available

January – April

Sweet Lime

Description

Sweet limes can easily be mistaken for lemons because of their yellow color – however don't be fooled. These limes have a unique flavor because they are less acidic. These limes can be eaten like any ripe fruit and they will not disappoint.

Available

November – April

Tarocco Blood Orange

Description

Tarocco Blood Oranges are the sweetest of all the blood orange varieties and have a bright and balanced flavor with tangy notes of raspberry. The flesh can range in color from orange to a deeper ruby red. The soft flesh is also nearly seedless and is divided into 10-12 segments.

Available

February – May

Ugli Fruit

Description

The Ugli Fruit is a form of a tangelo, hybridizing a grapefruit and a orange or tangerine. The light-green surface blemishes turn orange when the fruit is at its peak ripeness so be sure to grab a ripe one now!

Available

December – April

Valentine's Pummelo

Description

The largest of all citrus fruit, Pummelos have a thick, dark green peel that fades to yellow as the season progresses. Less acidic than traditional grapefruit – they have a zesty, tropical scent, with a tangy flavor.

Available

February

White Grapefruit

Description

White Grapefruit have a bright yellow rind when ripe with a yellow flesh and are almost perfectly round. These grapefruits are very juicy and contain up to 75% juice. They are sweet with a contrasting bitter and sourness.

Available

November – February

CHARLIE'S PRODUCE

CULTIVATING FRESH

Let Charlie's team build creative citrus displays for you!

Inquire with your sales
rep for more info.

CHARLIE'S PRODUCE

CULTIVATING FRESH

