

2024 Citrus Selections

*All Selections Subject to Availability

CHARLIE'S PRODUCE
CULTIVATING FRESH

Bergamot Orange

Description

Thought to be a hybrid of a sour orange and lemon, the Bergamot orange is acidic, tart and slightly bitter. Because of its very acidic nature, Bergamots are typically used for their rind, which contains essential oils with notes of floral and citrus.

Available

October - January

Blood Orange

Description

Blood oranges offer a distinct, rich orange taste with hints of berry. One blood orange contains over a day's worth of Vitamin C. They are easy to peel with a deep maroon interior making them a uniquely colored snack or addition to your favorite citrus recipe.

Available

December – June

*Organic Available

Buddha's Hand

Description

Buddha's Hand citron has a bitter-sweet, bright and floral flavor, and a sweet, lemon blossom aroma. Buddha's Hand is primarily used as a zest for flavoring in sweet and savory applications.

Available

October - February

Cara Cara

Description

A Cara Cara navel orange is a pinkish-red-fleshed navel believed to be a cross between the Washington navel and the Brazilian Bahia navel. This medium sized, seedless sweet treat is something you will not want to miss.

Available

December – May

*Organic Available

Clementine

Description

Clementine tangerines are small to medium sized mandarin oranges. Known for their easy to peel nature and sweet orange flavor. They are famously packed in the brands Cuties by Sun Pacific and Halos by Wonderful.

Available

Mid October – December

*Organic Available

Daisy Mandarin

Description

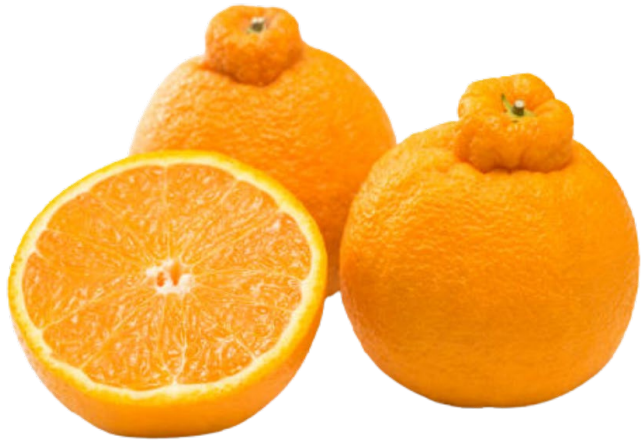

The Daisy mandarin is a medium-large hybrid of the mandarin varieties. They have a very round shape and easy rind to peel. These tangerines are known to be seedless with a very rich orange coloring, and juicy sweet taste.

Available

December – January

*Organic Available

Dekopon

Description

The Dekopon mandarin is a large, sweet and juicy satsuma mandarin orange. Dated all the way back to the 1970's - this mandarin is a cross between the Japanese Kiyomi and Ponkan citrus. The Dekopon can also be found under the names shiranui/shiranuhi and top knot. The Dekopon is seedless and most notably known for being packed under the Sumo label.

Available

January - April

Etrog Citron

Description

A large, rough and bumpy lemon with a thick and glossy yellow rind. Due to its acidity, the Etrog is mostly used for its rind, which has a fresh floral scent and taste. Great for candying.

Available

October - December

Florida Grapefruit

Description

Beautiful fruit with a yellow-light orange skin and pink to deep-red flesh. Carries an intense flavor that perfectly balances a classically sweet and tart grapefruit flavor, and a smooth texture.

Available

October - May

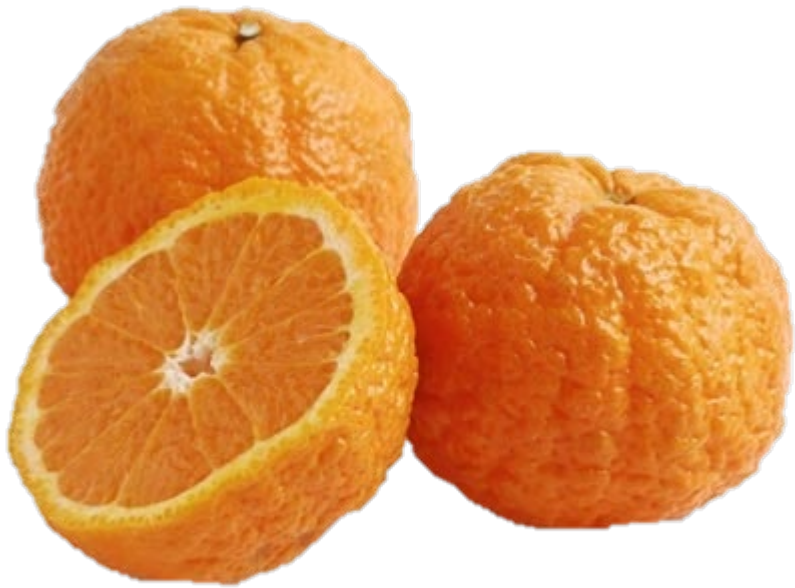

Gold Nugget

Description

Gold Nugget mandarins are sweet and easy to peel. This seedless variety originally received its name from its beautiful, bright and bumpy rind. These mandarins are a little bigger than the traditional mandarins, but they are a piece of gold you won't want to miss.

Available

March – June

Grapefruit

Description

Grapefruit are a relatively large citrus fruit with a sour to semi-sweet, and even sometimes bitter, flavor. Grapefruit is incredibly high in Vitamin C and A, making it the perfect boost for your immune system.

Available

April – August

*Organic Available

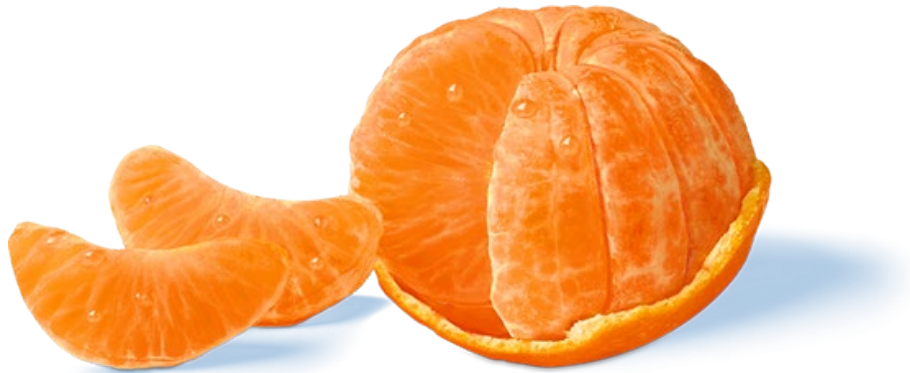

Halo Mandarin

Description

Halos are a branded label of clementines, murcotts and tango mandarin oranges from the Wonderful company. Each mandarin is grown and selected to be seedless, super-sweet and easy to peel. Halos are Non-GMO Project Verified and are the perfect snack for everyone to enjoy!

Available

October – May

Heirloom Navel

Description

Heirloom navels are a breed of the true Navel Orange; however, they are picked from the “old line” orange groves. This navel is specifically grown from certain farm practices, so it is unique within itself.

Available

Mid-January – Early-April

Honey Tangerine

Description

Honey tangerines are small fruits with a flattened oval shape. They have thin, pale orange rinds with a pebble-like textured surface. Honey tangerines have a juicy, orange interior that gives off a flavorful aroma. They are aptly named for their sweet taste with notes of honey and spice.

Available

November – April

Honeybell Tangelo

Description

Honeybell tangelos are a cross between a tangerine and pummelo. The result is a highly sought after and frequently gifted fruit! Honeybells are intensely sweet and very juicy. Honeybells get their name from their taste and the little bell shape at the top of the fruit.

Available

December - February

Kishu Mandarin

Description

Kishu Mandarin are sweet and very delicate hidden gems. They are smaller than the typical tangerine, but don't let that deter you - these are something you don't want to miss out on.

Available

December - January

*Organic Available

Kumquat

Description

Kumquats are small bite sized fruits that fill your mouth a big burst of sweet-tart citrus flavor. Originally grown in China, they have since spread to many other areas including Florida and California. In contrast to other citrus fruits, the peel of the kumquat is edible!

Available

December – March

*Organic Available

Makrut Lime

Description

Makrut limes are a small, bumpy fruit with an acidic bitter-sour flavor and intense lime aroma. Their leaves and zest add incredible dimensions of flavor to a dish, and are often used in Thai, Laos, Malaysian, and Indonesian cuisine. Primarily a cooking lime, great for savory applications.

Available

October – December

Melogold

Description

Melogolds are a cross between a white grapefruit and a pummelo. They are thicker than most grapefruits with a thick rind and golden yellow interior. Melogolds are very sweet and lack the tartness sometimes associated with grapefruit.

Available

October - January

Meyer Lemon

Description

Meyer lemons are a cross between a citron and a mandarin/pummelo hybrid. They are more spherical than true lemons and have a sweeter, less acidic flavor. While incredible for cooking applications, their high acidity level allows for these lemons to also be used as antibacterial and antiseptic cleaners.

Available

November – April

*Organic Available

Minneola

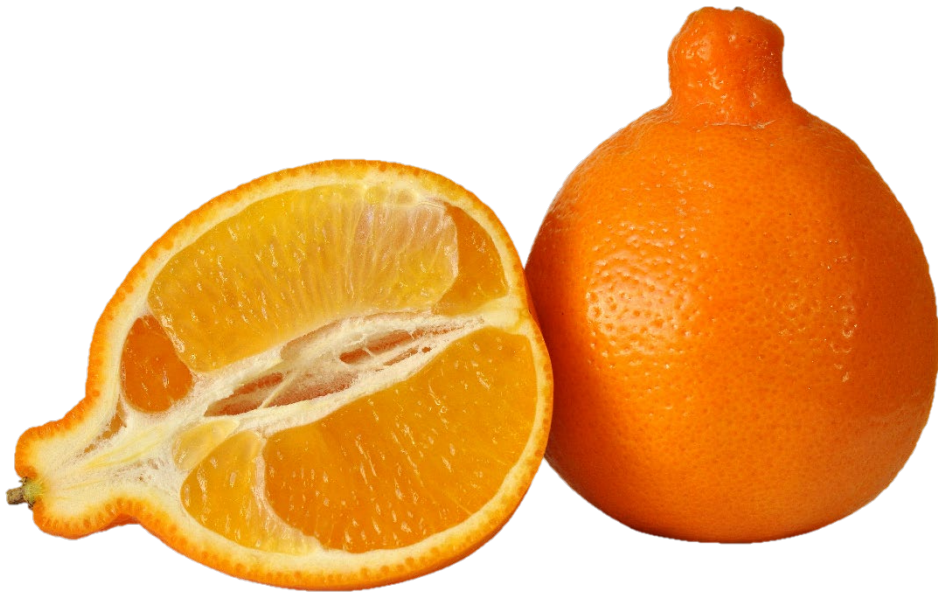

Description

The Minneola, nicknamed “The Honeyball” because of its unique shape, is a cross between a tangerine and grapefruit. Minneola’s are sweet with a mild tartness while having relatively few seeds. The large size and slightly elongated neck makes it easy to recognize.

Available

Mid December – April

*Organic Available

Murcott Mandarin

Description

Murcotts are widely grown in Florida between January and March. It is a hybrid orange being the child orange of the Tangelo. These medium size oranges have a thin, smooth rind and peel moderately well. They have a honey-like flavor to them and are sometimes referenced as Honey Mandarin.

Available

January – June

Navel Orange

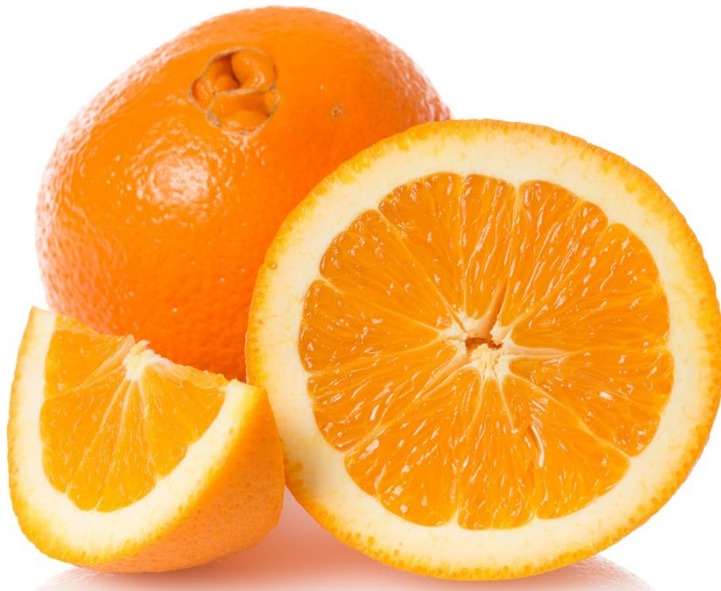

Description

Navel Oranges are named after a mutation that causes a secondary rudimentary fruit to form at the base, opposite the stem.. The same mutation that causes the navel-like formation on the fruit also makes it seedless. Navels have a sweet flavor and are one of the most popular citrus varieties available.

Available

November - June

*Organic Available

Nova Mandarin

Description

Nova Mandarins are a small-sized citrus fruit with slightly bumpy skin. They have a dark orange, fine-textured flesh with a juicy, sweet, rich flavor. This citrus variety is a nearly seedless cross between a Clementine mandarin and Orlando tangelo.

Available

November – January

Page Mandarin

Description

Page Mandarins are small to medium sized with an easy to peel rind. With deep orange colored flesh, good balance of juicy and sweet and its nearly seedless fruit, it is a perfect snacking citrus!

Available

November – March

*Organic Available

Pink Variegated Lemon

Description

Pink variegated lemons are a pink fleshed Eureka lemon. It stands out among lemons with a unique pink flesh, green striped rind and multi-colored foliage. These lemons are very tart and are a great addition to the lemon assortment.

Available

October – November, March – June

*Organic Available

Pixie Mandarin

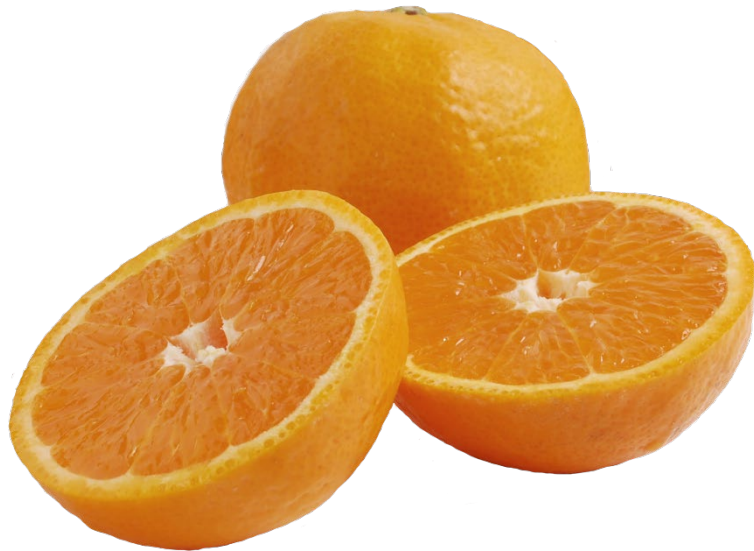

Description

Pixie Mandarins are pale orange colored, moderately juicy and always seedless. Pixies are small with pebbly skin and are easy to peel with segments that separate easily from one another.

Available

February – May

*Organic Available

Pummelo

Description

The largest of all citrus fruit, pummelos have a thick, dark green peel that fades to yellow as the season progresses. Less acidic than traditional grapefruit – they have a zesty, tropical scent, with a tangy flavor.

Available

Mid October – March

*Organic Available

Reserve Gold Nugget

Description

Reserve Gold Nugget Mandarins carry many of the same traits as normal Gold Nuggets: sweet, seedless, and easy to peel. The Reserve variety are specially selected off the tree when ripe, looking for traits that impact flavor such as growing location, age of tree and rootstock.

Available

February – May

Satsuma

Description

Satsumas have a sweet aroma with a refreshing flavor that is warm and tropical. Satsumas peel and segment easily and are seedless. One satsuma provides more than a full day's supply of Vitamin C.

Available

October – January

*Organic Available

Seville Orange

Description

Also known as the bitter orange, or the sour orange, the Seville Orange is prized for its cooking applications. The high levels of pectin give it a better set and higher yield for marmalades, compotes, liqueurs and more. Would not recommend eating this one out of hand.

Available

December – January

Seedless Lemons

Description

Naturally seedless, non-GMO Project verified, zesty, juicy lemons by the Wonderful Company. You won't have to worry about accidentally getting seeds in your food or drinks!

Available

December – June

Shasta Gold Mandarin

Description

Shasta Gold Mandarins are a slightly bumpy, deep-orange citrus variety. They are super juicy and seedless with an intensely sweet flavor and easy-to-peel rind. Great for salad toppings or jams!

Available

February – March

Stem & Leaf Gold Nugget

Description

Reserve Gold Nugget Mandarins carry many of the same traits as normal Gold Nuggets, being sweet seedless, and easy to peel. Stem & leaf varieties offer the same amazing flavor and juicy fruit in a beautifully colored rind with leaves.

Available

March – June

Stem & Leaf Tango

Description

Characterized by their thin, smooth, dark orange rind, the Stem and Leaf Tango Tangerine is a vibrantly sweet, tart and tangy mandarin orange. They were originally developed by the University of California Riverside's Citrus Breeding Program as a seedless tangerine with rich flavors.

Available

February - March

Stem & Leaf Murcott

Description

A seedless version of the Florida Honey Tangerine. These Murcott mandarins are easy to peel and fresh with the stem and leaf still attached to the fruit. They have a sweet, rich honey-like flavor. Typically, medium in size and flatter in shape.

Available

January - February

Stem & Leaf Satsuma

Description

Stem and Leaf Satsumas are not your typical satsumas – these satsumas are incredibly juicy with a strong honey-like sweetness. These satsumas are a healthy treat that you don't want to miss.

Available

November – January

Sweet Lime

Description

Sweet Limes can easily be mistaken for lemons because of their yellow color – however don't be fooled. These limes have a unique flavor because they are less acidic. Sweet limes can be eaten like any ripe fruit, and they do not disappoint.

Available

November – April

Tarocco Blood Orange

Description

Tarocco Blood Oranges are the sweetest of the blood orange varieties. They have a bright and balanced flavor with tangy notes of raspberry. The flesh can range in color from orange to a deeper ruby red. The soft flesh is also nearly seedless and is divided into 10-12 segments.

Available

February – May

Texas Grapefruit

Description

Known as the sweetest grapefruits, Texas grown grapefruit come in a few different varieties such as the Rio Red and Ruby Red. They all can be characterized by their varying levels of sweet flavor and juicy red flesh.

Available

October - May

Ugli Fruit

Description

The Ugli Fruit is a form of a tangelo, hybridizing a grapefruit and an orange or tangerine. The light-green surface blemishes turn orange when the fruit is at its peak ripeness, so be sure to grab a ripe one now!

Available

December – April

Valentine's Pummelo

Description

The largest of all citrus fruit, pummelos have a thick, dark green peel that fades to yellow as the season progresses. Less acidic than traditional grapefruit – they have a zesty, tropical scent, with a tangy flavor.

Available

February

White Grapefruit

Description

White grapefruits have a bright yellow rind when ripe; with a yellow flesh and are almost perfectly round. These grapefruits are very juicy and contain up to 75% juice. They are sweet with a contrasting bitter and sourness.

Available

November - February

Yuzu Lemon

Description

Yuzu lemons are roughly golf-ball sized unique citrus with the flavor of a lemon, lime and grapefruit all in one. They are prized for their juice and for their rough skin for zest.

Available

October - November

CHARLIE'S PRODUCE

CULTIVATING FRESH

Let Charlie's team build creative citrus displays for you!

Inquire with your sales rep for more info.

